ART MUSEUM TO INSTALL FAR EASTERN ART AT THE OLD ART SCHOOL

FAR EASTERN ART FROM THE MUSEUM'S COLLECTION will be exhibited from November 2 to December 1 in the central gallery of the Old Art School, temporary home of The Cleveland Museum of Art at 11441 Juniper Road. The exhibit will be installed to celebrate "Asian Month" with the United States National Committee for the International Council of Museums and the American Association of Museums.

Two albums of serene Chinese landscapes, ink and color on paper, will be displayed along with several Japanese and Chinese prints, and about twenty sculptures by Chinese, Japanese, Siamese, Cambodian and Indian artists. Four colorful folding screens, all splashed with gold, will lend a decorative note to the show. Other objects include delicate Chinese and Korean porcelains, a Chinese portable shrine of stone and a Korean box with painted panels.

On November 22 at 8:15 p.m. Dr. Sherman E. Lee, Associate Director of the Museum, will lecture on Japanese Folk Art at the Old Art School.

Both the galleries and the lecture are open free to the public.
